GROWING THROUGH FAITH IN CHRIST SINCE 1767

Providence Presbyterian Church came to life from the influx of Ulster Scots to the American 'promised land' in the 1700s, a group of people shaped by faith and the idea of a new frontier. They migrated south, took part in the Revolutionary and Civil Wars, and established deep roots in Mecklenburg County. It's no surprise that Providence Road – one of Charlotte's main thoroughfares – takes its name from our church while other roads, such as Rea Road and McKee Road, are named for members of the PPC congregation over the past 250+ years. 'Providence' expresses the founders' firm trust in the faithfulness of God to work all things for God's purpose, which is a bedrock tenet of our Presbyterian faith. One of the original seven colonial Presbyterian churches in the county, PPC served as the center of the Providence Community. Though that community has grown exponentially over the years as Charlotte has become more and more populated, the same could also be said of the church today: it still sits at the center of many of our community member's lives.

Starting with our first minister Rev. William Richardson 1767, to today's Pastor, Rev. Dr. Jody Moore, our church has had its fair share of servant leaders. Many worked to grow our congregation from one generation to the next— through times of want and times of wealth. Among those were enslaved communicants who, though denied full membership in the church, contributed much to it during the time prior to the Emancipation Proclamation. They were instrumental in building the "new" sanctuary of 1858. This is the historic building where we continue to meet for worship today.

We welcome members and visitors alike to share in worship and connect to God's people and purpose. A wonderful side benefit of visiting us is the opportunity to stroll a property rich in history. Our first 'pulpit,' also known as Preaching Rock is at the entrance to the cemetery, where markers pre-date the Revolutionary War. Continue through the back gate, and visit the historic enslaved cemetery, a sad reminder of a dark period of our history. This path leads to the nearby spring that first drew worshipers to this spot and provided water for baptisms, as well as drinking water for people and their horses.

History is too valuable a teacher to be forgotten. We seek to learn and grow from the lived faith of Providence's fathers and mothers, sisters, and brothers. And where their lived experiences were less than consistent with the gospel, reflecting instead their cultural milieu, we seek forgiveness and reconciliation.

What We Believe

Our Vision for Providence Presbyterian Church

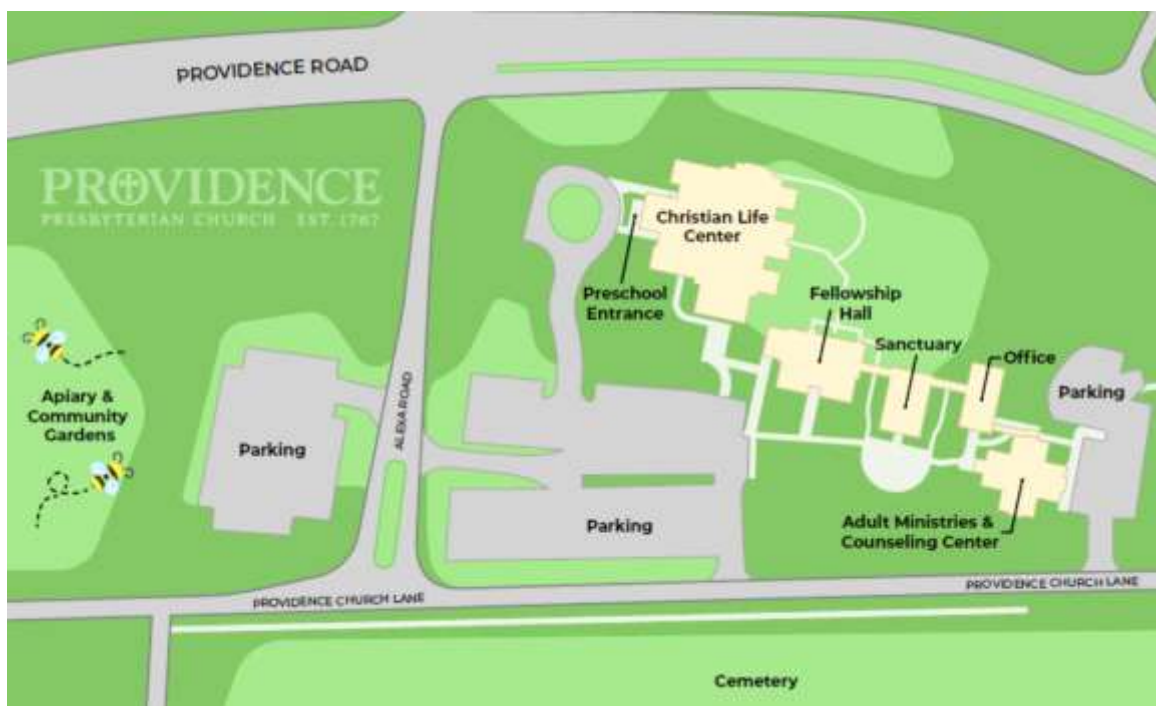

As we boldly proclaim the transformative power of God's word, we will inspire with our past, care for all in our present, and nurture disciples for our future.

The Session

The Session is the governing body in a church. It is made up of elected 'elders' and the pastor who serves as a moderator. They seek to provide for the mission and ministry of Providence through a variety of programs, learning experiences, small groups, worship, fellowship activities, and learning opportunities for people of all ages. Through prayer, study, and reliance upon God's Word and Spirit, the Session works diligently to equip members for their work of ministry in the world and to build up the church in the love of Christ.

The Diaconate is a group of officers who are elected to serve as Deacons. Their ministry is one of compassion, care, and service. Our deacons minister to those in need, the sick, the friendless, and to any who may be in distress. (That's from the Book of Order.) They review and recommend the ministries which we support through our benevolent budget, they oversee the Deacon's Fund which aids those in the Charlotte community who find themselves in dire circumstances and need emergency assistance. We have a very active group of deacons who lead us to become a more caring, compassionate church.

We want them to have the absolute best experience here at PPC. We welcome all children/youth to join us!

CHILDREN’S PROGRAM 10:30 AM – 1:00 PM

On the first Sunday of every month, we have a program for the children and parents! Members of our church and community lead our children in a Christian-based craft, activity, and a light meal. We focus on mini-missions, fellowship, community, and ways we can share the love Jesus has for all.
